SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK
BY O. O. McINTYRE

Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-125 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Introducing the Pop Eyed Man! Perhaps you have them in your city but New York has them in a greater abundance than perhaps any other city in the world. They seem to thrive here. The Pop Eyed Man is of the primates, the order of mammals, and he is the bulbous creature with hands pudgily adapted to the acquisition of banknotes.

I have observed him closely and this observation reveals him as the final effort of evolution, a member of the old proud pagent of man, though his hippopotamus eyes seem to relate him more nearly to the Ungulate, or Hoofed Mammals. He is never found on the tennis court nor the golf course. And he knows not the luteness and verve—Gosh that's a good word—of swimming, nor could he with safety enter a canoe. But in certain favored haunts, luminous with incandescents and prodigious with fluttering tuxedoed waiters, he and his fellows move flashily and competently on. They sit at corner tables opposite stridently fair young things, who gurgle in glee at that puffing witticisms and snirk appreciatively as they splutter their orders for wine.

The waiters know the Pop Eyed Man and hear in his cackling laugh the prophecy of a top notch tip. He is rarely seen before the late hours of the afternoon, though he can occasionally be found as early as noon peering with watered eyes at the tickling tale of the stocks.

There are some who hold that the Pope Eyed Man is not a real species at all, but that in his early stages he is even as other men; that his bulging eyes and rolling flesh are the acquired characteristics of long years of jole de vivre—Zip! more lovely words—of heavy dinners and light living with those whose business it is to be obtrusively young.

Recently a young woman who took a chance on publicity walked on a wire in the air in Nassau street, made a call on the Tribune clock and walked back to her starting point. Those in the street below glanced up and moved on in the regular New York way.

A few Sundays ago a church congregation stood up to sing the doxology, the floor gave way and the pastor's fold dropped quickly to the cellar of the building. Those walking on the streets surrounding the church paid no heed to the cry. It was merely a bit of great noise.

Aren't things in this city exciting? Life is so complex, you know, Heigh ho! Now the police commissioner has put one thousand "rookie" cops to work guiding traffic. They are assistant cops. They do not look like policemen. They wear low tan shoes, fedora hats, colored socks and gay string ties.

One driver I saw on Fifth avenue was steering his car where cars ought not to be steered. The cub cop raised his hand in protest. The driver looked down and smiled and drove on. The rookie ran after him, looked him right in the eyes and shouted, "Come back."

The driver bent over the side of his car. "What is the matter, little man?" he asked, "Do you want me to kiss you?"

C. M. Garrison, the mining expert, is back in town from Arizona. Many years ago he was a confidential employe of ex-Senator Clark, the copper magnate, but later he branched out for himself and now he has a bankroll that a greyhound could not huddle.

I saw him the other day dining in one of the quieter restaurants where good food is substituted for eukaleles. But he wasn't happy. "I'm tired of stiff collars," he said. "I want to get back to the flannel shirt and sit upon the stool at the short order restaurant in Arizona and order 'ham and' and afterward smoke my pipe."

"Three times I have been stopped from smoking my pipe in New York cafes and yet all around me men and women are smoking cigarettes. I can't get the system."

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA.
A Proclamation. By the Governor.
I, Henry D. Hatfield, Governor of the State of West Virginia, pursuant to the Constitution and laws of said State, do hereby certify to the voters of the State of West Virginia that, on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, in the year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixteen, at the general election held on that day, there will be submitted for ratification or rejection an amendment to the Constitution of said State as follows: to-wit:

Proposed Amendment.
That Section one of Article four of said Constitution as it is now is to be altered and amended so as to read as follows: "Section one. To the citizens of the State, both male and female, shall be entitled to vote at all elections held within the counties in which they respectively reside; but no person who is a minor or of unsound mind, or a pauper, or who is under conviction of treason, or bribery in an election, or who has not been a resident of the State for one year, and of the county in which he or she offers to vote, for sixty days next preceding such offer, shall be permitted to vote while such disability continues; but no person in the military, naval or marine service of the United States shall be deemed a resident of this State by reason of being stationed there-in."

The proposed amendment is designated as "Woman's Suffrage Amendment" and on the official ballot to be voted at said election will be printed the following: BAILOT ON CONSTITUTIONAL WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT. Amending Section one of Article Four. For ratification of Woman's Suffrage

WAR-NING!

In the face of very slow and almost no imports from Europe we feel fortunate indeed that our line of imported China is large and complete. The imports for the season of 1916 are all in and our advice is that very little or none will be shipped until after the warring conditions are settled in Europe.

If you are considering Imported China or Cut Glass for yourself or for some one else, our advice would be not delay.

Whether you are in the market or not, the invitation is extended to visit our China Dept.
